Please see the Certificate of Completion section below for important information on obtaining continuing education credit for this course.

Program Goal

This course will utilize a case study of a 1-year-old "low-risk" child with lead poisoning to provide a high-yield overview of lead toxicity, including clinical presentation, treatment, and health effects. Current and historical statistics, public health and clinical implications across all age groups, and the socioeconomic and healthcare disparity aspects of lead poisoning will also be explored.

Speaker Information

Jessica Faraci, MD, FAAFP
